The University has approximately 3,100 bed spaces available on campus. The facilities range from traditional residence halls (coed, all female, and all male in double room occupancy or suite arrangements) to apartments (one-bedroom and two-bedroom). A limited number of disabled access and single occupancy units are available. Married students and their immediate families are incorporated into the general resident population.

Residential life offers a wide variety of programs to the residents. Groups and individuals are encouraged to participate in organized programs with opportunities for social, emotional, physical, intellectual, spiritual, and occupational involvement. Service learning and community service projects are also offered as part of the residential life program.

Residents of the traditional residence halls are required to purchase a dining plan from a variety of dining plans offered. A dining plan is optional for apartment residents. Residents on dining plans dine at Hale Aloha Cafeteria. Contact Sodexo Marriott Services for more detailed dining plan information.

Hawai'i residents are given first priority in the assignment process, and out-of-state and foreign students are usually assigned in subsequent assignment rounds. During the last three years, all applicants were accommodated. Acceptance to the University does not automatically include on-campus housing. Students are encouraged to apply for on-campus housing by filling out a separate housing application. Please contact Student Housing Services for an application and specific application deadlines.

The challenges of choosing the right career, achieving or maintaining one's independence, relating successfully to others, and leading a happy and successful life converge during a student's college years. College life adds the concerns of exams, term papers, quizzes, and class reports. Even students who are prepared to do their best in college may experience problems. The Counseling and Student Development Center (CSDC) provides the following services to assist students.

Career Counseling

Students should choose their majors before they progress very far in their academic programs. Most students expect their academic studies to lead to specific careers upon graduation. Career counseling explores strengths and limitations, interests and values, personality and skills, and applies this understanding to developing academic and occupational plans. (See also Career Services.)

Personal Counseling

Some people occasionally, even regularly, feel worried, unhappy, and depressed. Lack of confidence, fear, low self-esteem, inability to get along with others, loneliness, not being able to cope with people and situations, and similar problems can be discussed with one of CSDC's professional counselors. All matters discussed in counseling are confidential and will not affect academic standing.

Psychiatric Consultation

People who find themselves seriously depressed, unable to control their behavior, or doing things they don't understand may want and need psychiatric consultations. A talk with a counselor is recommended to determine whether psychiatric consultation is required.

Educational Counseling

Difficulties in courses and in meeting academic requirements may be alleviated by educational counseling and learning assistance services. The Learning Assistance Center (LAC) offers programs, commercial materials, and diagnostic services to help develop more effective study habits and learning skills. These services are provided on an individual basis through personal program development or on a group basis through workshops. Areas of possible development include time management, listening/note-taking, reading, research paper writing, and general and standardized exam preparation. LAC is in Student Services 306.

Testing

Testing is frequently used as part of counseling to help students understand themselves better and plan their careers. Counselors will discuss which tests to take and interpret them after they are scored. In addition, information is available about admissions and certifications such as the Graduate Record Examination (GRE), Law School Admission Test (LSAT), and Medical College Admission Test (MCAT), as well as exams for a variety of different programs and professions.

Outreach

Workshops and seminars are offered throughout the year. Stress management, assertiveness training, improving self-esteem, career planning, and overcoming loneliness are just a few of the topics covered.

Consultation

CSDC provides consultation services for individual students, faculty, and groups that may need help in solving organizational problems, overcoming interpersonal difficulties, and planning staff development programs.
