William S. Richardson
School of Law

Administration
2515 Dole Street
Honolulu, HI 96822
Tel: (808) 956-7966
(808) 956-3000 (Application Request Line)
Fax: (808) 956-3813
E-mail: lawadm@hawaii.edu
Web: www.hawaii.edu/law

Dean: Aviam Soifer
Assistant Dean: Laurie A. Tochiki

Faculty
D. Antolini, MPP, JD—environmental law, legal research and writing, torts
J. Barkai, MBA, JD—negotiation and alternative dispute resolution, evidence, prosecution clinic
H. Beh, PhD, JD—advanced torts, contracts, higher education law, insurance law, legal research and writing
C. Booth, JD—Asian insolvency and commercial law, debtors’ and creditors’ rights, secured transactions
R. Brown, JD, LLM—labor law, employment law, employment discrimination law, Asia comparative labor law, Chinese law, U.S.-China comparative labor law
D. Callies, JD, LLM—land use, legal research and writing, property law, state and local government law
W. Chang, JD—conflicts of law, indigenous peoples rights, jurisprudence, Native Hawaiian rights, water resources
A. Conner, PhD, JD—law and society in China, Chinese business law, Asian comparative law, business associations, introduction to American law
D. Conway-Jones, JD, LLM—government contract law, intellectual property, international intellectual property, internet law and policy, legal research and writing
L. Foster, PhD, JD—securities regulation, readings in Chinese legal materials, legal research and writing, international commercial dispute resolution
V. Hench, JD, LLM—civil rights, criminal justice, criminal procedure, gender and law, Hawai‘i innocence project
C. Jarman, JD, LLM—administrative law, domestic ocean law, environmental law, wildlife and natural resources law, legal research and writing
M. Levin, JD, LLM—law and society in Japan, Japanese business law, international business transactions, legal research and writing, sales
J. Levinson, JD, LLM—business associations, corporate finance, high growth entrepreneurship, law and psychology, legal research and writing
M. MacKenzie, JD—Native Hawaiian rights, Native Hawaiian rights clinic, advanced legal studies in Native Hawaiian law, legal research and writing
C. Pang, MPH, JD—elder law clinic, family law, lawyering skills, legal research and writing
J. Pietsch, JD—elder law, health law, bioethics, legal research and writing
J. Ramsfield, JD—legal discourse, composition theory, linguistics
R. Roth, JD, LLM—professional responsibility, trusts and estates, federal income taxation, nonprofit organizations, and estate planning workshop
L. Seeger, JD, MLawLibr—legal research and writing
J. Van Dyke, JD—constitutional law, international law, international human rights, international ocean law
E. Yamamoto, JD—civil procedure, advanced procedure/complex litigation, public law litigation, race, culture and law, reparations

Contents

General Information ................................................................. 255
Advising ................................................................................. 256
Admission Requirements ......................................................... 257
Application Deadlines .............................................................. 257
Ulu Lehua Program ................................................................. 257
Program Requirements ............................................................ 257
Special Programs ..................................................................... 257
Center for Excellence in Native Hawaiian Law ....................... 257
Dual Degree and Graduate Certificate Programs ................ 258
Elder Law Program ............................................................... 258
Pro Bono Program .................................................................. 258
Environmental Law Program .................................................. 258
LL.M. Program for International Students ............................ 258
Pacific-Asian Legal Studies ..................................................... 258
Student Organizations ........................................................... 259

General Information

Since admitting its first class of students in 1973, the William S. Richardson School of Law has graduated more than 2,000 attorneys, most of whom continue to serve in the state of Hawai‘i. Richardson graduates have risen to prominent positions, including governor of Hawai‘i; lieutenant governor, president of a Hawai‘i university; a federal magistrate; circuit, district, family, and per diem court judges; partners in major law firms; and members of the state Legislature and Honolulu City Council. In addition, graduates of the school are found in significant numbers at the attorney general, public defender, and prosecutor offices.

The law school offers a three-year, post-baccalaureate program culminating in the juris doctor (JD) degree, also known as the first professional degree in law. A JD degree prepares students for the bar examination, admission to the bar, and a satisfying career in legal and related fields. The school also offers an LL.M. for international students.

Student Body

Many of the 300 students in the law school either were born in Hawai‘i or have other ties to the state or region. We also welcome students from the continental U.S., Asia, and the Pacific. Many students from out-of-state express an interest in the school’s exceptional Pacific-Asian, environmental, or ocean policy areas of emphasis. Each entering class (90 in number) typically reflects the ethnic diversity of Hawai‘i and includes individuals of African American, Caucasian, Chinese, Filipino, Hawaiian, Japanese, Korean, and Pacific Island ancestry. Currently enrolled students from the Asia Pacific region represent China, Guam, Japan, the Northern Mariana Islands, and American Samoa.

More than half of the students are female, and about 20 percent have completed other graduate degrees before enrolling in the law school.

Mission

The mission of the William S. Richardson School of Law is to provide formal legal education, encourage and support scholarly legal research, and promote justice in our society and professional responsibility and public service within our profession. We share the goals of the State of Hawai‘i and UH to provide educational opportunities for the people of this state and to be leaders in environmental law, Pacific and Asian legal studies, and the law of the sea.

In carrying out this mission, the school’s graduates fill a demand for qualified attorneys who are sensitive to Hawai‘i’s special needs and who will serve government and the public interest as well as private entities.

Students are encouraged to study law and legal institutions as integral parts of larger social, political, economic, and ecological systems. A number of law students concurrently seek graduate degrees at UH while undertaking the JD program.

Accreditations

The accreditation process of the American Bar Association (ABA) is designed to ensure that approved law schools have adequate facilities and adhere to sound educational policies. The School of Law has been fully approved by the ABA; this enables its graduates to present a JD degree acceptable to the bar examiners in every state. There are approximately 185 ABA-approved law schools in the U.S.

In 1989, the School of Law was admitted to full membership in the Association of American Law Schools (AALS).

Degrees Offered: juris doctor (JD), LL.M.

Advising

Students have access to academic, personal, and career counseling at any time during the program. Academic counseling is intended to assist the student in defining a program that will satisfy both personal interests and professional development.

Career counseling and information on job opportunities are provided to students for part-time, clerkship, and entry-level positions. About 40 Honolulu legal employers representing the private, public, and public-interest sectors participate in the on-campus interview program for law students. The law school also presents informational programs on career choices and alternatives and preparation for the job search.

Admission Requirements
Admission to the law school is a highly competitive process which is based on an applicant’s academic achievement, aptitude for the study of law, and professional promise. Included among the specific factors evaluated are undergraduate grade point average, results of the Law School Admission Test (LSAT), academic work beyond the bachelor’s degree, academic rigor, writing ability, work experience, and volunteer and civic activities. The admission committee also takes into consideration the diversity of the class and unusual accomplishments or achievements. Residency in Hawai‘i or special experience relevant to Hawai‘i, the Asia Pacific region, or the law school’s programs is also a significant admission criterion.

All applicants must have earned, by the entrance date, a baccalaureate degree from an accredited institution of higher learning in the U.S. or a foreign degree that is fully equivalent. Other requirements include the LSAT results, submission of transcripts to the Law School Data Assembly Service (LSDAS), two letters of recommendation, and a completed law school application.

Application Deadlines
Applications for admission must be filed with the School of Law and must be submitted on the current year’s forms. Contact the law school for up-to-date deadlines and applications. Late or incomplete applications are not considered. Applicants are notified of the admission decision in late March/early April for August entry. In 2007, the law school received 1,050 applications for admission.

Ulu Lehua Program
The Ulu Lehua Program, formerly known as the Pre-Admission Program celebrated its thirtieth anniversary in 2004. The program was established soon after the founding of the law school to address the issues of disadvantaged applicants and to serve legally underserved communities. The program provides selected students who have already overcome adversity with the opportunity to demonstrate their ability to perform in law school. There is no separate application process for this program. The twelve applicants invited to become Lehua Scholars are identified by the admissions committee in the process of reviewing all applications to the juris doctor program.

The Ulu Lehua Program continues to fulfill the original mission of its founders in 1974 of helping to correct the problem of under-representation of disadvantaged groups in the law school population and the Bar. Graduates of the program include many current judges, government leaders, successful business administrators, and prominent attorneys. The program brings diversity of experience and perspective to the law school community and legal community and enhances the school’s commitment to diversity in all of its admissions practices.

Program Requirements
The JD program is a three-year, full-time course of study that begins in August with a 3-day orientation for new students. The JD degree is awarded upon completion of six semesters of full-time study and the satisfactory completion of 89 credit hours, including a selection of required courses. Completion of the program must be attained within five years of the date of first registration. Full-time study is defined as registration for a minimum of 12 credit hours per semester plus regular and punctual attendance at scheduled class meetings. In addition, all law students must complete 60 hours of pro bono legal service in order to graduate. The School of Law does not offer part-time or evening programs, and its classes are open only to law students and selected classified graduate students with prior departmental and law school approval. Contact the law school for a detailed description of the degree requirements.

The first-year curriculum is entirely prescribed and offers a conventional format of substantive courses and intensive small group seminars in legal writing, research, and advocacy. The program for the second and third years is primarily elective and includes writing and research seminars, clinical workshops (some of which involve students in actual litigation under the Supreme Court’s Student Practice Rule), and a variety of courses in both traditional and new areas of law.

Most grading within the law school is done anonymously and on a B grading curve.

Additional Information
For complete information on school policies and programs, request a School of Law Catalog from the Office of Admissions at 2515 Dole Street, Honolulu, HI 96822 or online at www.hawaii.edu/law.

Special Programs
The Center for Excellence in Native Hawaiian Law
The Center for Excellence in Native Hawaiian Law was established in 2005 at the law school through a grant under the Native Hawaiian Education Act. The center focuses on education, research, community outreach, and the preservation of invaluable Hawaiian historical and legal materials. It also offers new courses and supports law students as they pursue legal careers and leadership roles in the Native Hawaiian community. Center faculty have expertise in all aspects of Native Hawaiian rights, water law, Federal Indian law, and traditional and customary rights issues. The center recently began a Post-JD Research Fellowship program; awarded Summer Fellowships allowing law students to work for Native Hawaiian organizations over the Summer of 2006; awarded four student scholarships; and produced a guide to Native Hawaiian legal resources. Through a recent initiative, students are now able to receive a Pacific-Asian Legal Studies Certificate with a specialty in Native Hawaiian Law.
Dual Degree and Graduate Certificate Programs

Law students may integrate their law school work with graduate work in other schools and colleges at the UH and receive both the JD degree and a graduate degree. The most popular dual degree programs have been the JD–MBA, the JD–master of urban and regional planning, and the JD–MA in Asian studies, although other dual degrees may be approved in consultation with the law school. Students may also pursue graduate certificate programs including ocean policy, resource management, or gerontology.

Students interested in dual degree or certificate programs must apply separately and be admitted to both the School of Law and the graduate or certificate program. Admission to one program does not guarantee admission to the other.

Elder Law Program

The UH Elder Law Program (UHELP) consists of two components: the Elder Law course and the Elder Law legal services project. The course is part of the law school’s educational program for training law students in the rapidly expanding field of elder law. The Elder Law legal services project provides direct delivery of limited civil legal services to older persons who are socially and economically needy. It also provides education, training and advice to older persons, their families and caregivers regarding the oftentimes complex legal aspects of caregiving. This direct legal services project is an important source of cases assigned to law students in the Elder Law Clinic. UHELP also houses the Pro Bono Program.

Pro Bono Program

The Pro Bono Program at the William S. Richardson School of Law was one of the first law school pro bono programs and is thought to be the first student-initiated mandatory program in the nation. Students are required to locate and to provide law-related pro bono work under the supervision of an attorney, law school faculty or dean, or other supervisor, as approved by the law school Pro Bono Program director. The definition of law-related pro bono work is construed liberally and includes law related work in the public interest with private practice and non-profit attorneys as well as any international, federal, state, or local government agency, court or legislature. Law students are encouraged to provide a portion of their pro bono service for indigent clients. The pro bono requirement began with the entering class of August 1992 and successful completion of the pro bono service requirement is a condition for graduation.

Environmental Law Program

Recognizing the challenges that Hawai’i faces in developing an environmentally sustainable economy, the law school has developed a vibrant, diverse Environmental Law Program (ELP). The ELP offers a significant number of exciting and varied courses in environment law and related fields. The centerpiece of the ELP is the Certificate in Environmental Law, described below. For more information on the law school’s ELP, visit our website at www.hawaii.edu/elp/index2.html. The certificate program recognizes the increased student interest in this area, the expertise of a substantial number of our faculty and opportunities in the field. Students interested in the certificate might also want to consider pursuing a Graduate Ocean Policy Certificate, which is offered at UH and is part of our dual degree program. The certificate is available only to UH law students.

LL.M. Program for International Students

The LL.M. program is a one-year course of study open to foreign legal professionals and law graduates who wish to gain a broader understanding of U.S. and international legal issues. The program begins in August; no students will be admitted mid-year. To graduate, students must complete at least twenty-four credit hours. Students are free to design their own course of study in consultation with the LL.M. director and may select a range of courses and seminars in areas such as business and commercial law, environmental law, and international and comparative law. Their program may (but need not) include first-year courses, which serve as an introduction to U.S. law and methods of study. With the consent of the instructor and the LL.M. director, LL.M. students also may enroll in courses offered by schools or departments outside the School of Law or participate in legal externships.

The introduction to American Law course is required and restricted to LL.M. students, but LL.M. students will take all other classes with American J.D. students and will have ample opportunity to interact with them. The small size of the LL.M. program (no more than ten to fifteen students) and of most School of Law classes promotes close interaction, and LL.M. students are encouraged to participate in all aspects of law school life.

For more information on the LL.M. program, visit our website at www.hawaii.edu/law or contact the LL.M. director at lawllm@hawaii.edu.
Pacific-Asian Legal Studies

In keeping with Hawai‘i’s location, culture, and history, the Law School has long emphasized Pacific-Asian Legal Studies Program (PALS). We now offer an exceptional range of courses on Pacific and Asian law: students may take general Asian and comparative law courses or choose from specialized courses on China, Japan, Korea and the Pacific. Our PALS faculty members are actively engaged in current Asian-Pacific issues and bring an unusual depth of expertise to their courses. They are recognized nationally and internationally for their scholarship, which they combine with extensive real-world experience. Each year we also invite distinguished visitors from Asia and the Pacific to visit the law school and teach short-term specialized courses to supplement the regular curriculum. To recognize students who concentrate in Pacific-Asian law, we award certificates of achievement. We actively support student participation in externships in Asia and the Pacific as part of their law school program, which will also count toward certificate credit. Students may also benefit from some of the many exchange relationships the law school maintains with law schools throughout the Asia-Pacific. For more information, visit our website at www.hawaii.edu/law/pals.

Student Organizations

The current list of student organizations at the School of Law includes the following:

ʻAhahui o Hawai‘i
Advocates for Public Interest Law
American Bar Association - Law Student Division
American Constitution Society
Asia Pacific Law & Policy Journal
BarBri
Black Law Students Association
Business Executive Legal Society
Christian Legal Society
Delta Theta Phi
Dive Club
Environmental Law Society
Ete Bowl
Federalist Society
Filipino Law Student Association
Film and Entertainment Law Organization
Hawai‘i Women Lawyers
La Alianza
LAMBDA Law Student Organization
Law Review
National Lawyers Guild – Richardson Chapter
Pacific Asian Law Student Organization
Phi Delta Phi
PMBR Reps
Public Health Law Organization
Student Animal Legal Defense Fund
Student Bar Association
Surf Club